FOR WINDOWS ABUNDANT IN HEIGHT, OR NEEDING TO CREATE THE ILLUSION OF HEIGHT, SLIDING PANELS AND SHEERS ADD VERTICAL VERVE WITH FASHION-FORWARD POSSIBILITIES.

The photograph shows a display of window treatments in a room. On the left, a wall is covered in a light-colored fabric with a repeating pattern of overlapping circles. In the center, there are several vertical panels and sheers in shades of green and white. A window is visible in the background, partially covered by the treatments. The floor is made of dark wood.
