Writable Surfaces

Formica's latest collection of high-pressure laminate allows users to see the writing on the wall—and then erase it. The stain-resistant 8' sheets are available in two chalkboard and four markerboard designs (ColorBook, shown) that can be placed on horizontal and vertical surfaces.

Cape

Handwoven from fibers harvested from the stems of water lilies, the sustainable, sand-colored Cape possesses a subtle, unexpected shimmer. The Class A fire-resistant material arrives in rolls 43" wide and may be ordered in 3-yard increments. It also can contribute to LEED certification.

Supermarket

Paola Navone's homage to the corner grocery store offers tidy rows of canned tomatoes, chocolate bars, and boxes of pasta; the pattern does not repeat over the length of each 19" x 394" roll. ASTM fire-rated, the colorfast covering features a paper top layer and nonwoven backing free of PVC, solvents, and formaldehyde.
